Praying for Oblivion

The veteran" egotist is in a state of positive agony Our citations from his record have thrown him into a fever He would be glad if that "record" could never more be disturbed His is anxious to let bygones be bygones Like his secesh brethren of the South he would welcome oblivion for the past It would suit him to have a million tons of dirt about that record" and to have it sunk in the immeasurable depths of Lethe But as it cannot be forgotten, it is a source of the most incessant and painful annoyance to him When he came up here, he thought he would get a truce to the past, but that 'record' follows him looming up huge and frightful like a moonlight shadow We read in Milton that when Satan was thrust through by the steel of an opponent, he writhed him to and fro convolved This exactly describes the movements and contortions of Beriah when a whip, made up of extracts from his 'record,' is plied about him On these occasions his exclamations alternate between a whine and a snarl, and he piteously begs everybody to believe that the words which are written in that "record" do not mean what they declare They mean something else When he denied the right of the Federal Government to coerce States into submission, he did not allude to those States which had withdrawn from the Union, but to those which were already submissive to the Government "As to the right of the Federal Government to coerce States in the Union,' says he, 'we challenge the pettifogger of the Oregonian to show any authority for it whatever" This is profound The question at that time then, was not whether the Government had a right to coerce Virginia and Carolina which had rebelled and defied its authority but whether it had a right to coerce Massachusetts and Oregon which had done neither And his numerous and lengthy anti coercion articles were written merely to show that the Government could not coerce a State which had done nothing to make coercion necessary That was all When he denied the right of coercion, he simply meant that the loyal, adhering States could not be coerced; and where is the pettifogger who can show any authority for doing it? Beriah was only arguing to show that the Government had no right to coerce California! That was the question he was considering! That was the origin of his "I dare" and the source of his anxiety

To maintain the doctrine that the rebel States were "out of the Union" during the rebellion, and that their people were "aliens," he has recourse to the decisions of the Supreme Court. One would think that his past experience would be a sufficient warning to cause him to let Supreme Court decisions alone But he is determined to learn nothing, and by his dullness has got himself into a trap again We quote from his last two columns of "wail" as follows

Another proof of the change of sentiment which this writer reports is that we used the term "aliens" as spoke of the South as "the enemy's territory" The latter term is included in the latter and that is quoted from a decision of the Supreme Court which declared that the states of the enemy while war existed, the same court which decided when the war ended that the "enemy's territory" had been restored to the Union and that the "aliens" were thereby made citizens of the United States.

Let us inquire a little about this. The decision to which he refers was was made in the Hiawatha prize case, and is reported in 2 Black, 635 The "veteran" egotist has several times mis-quoted from this decision to support his "secession record," a circumstance which we have already once or twice pointed out. The Supreme Court in the case referred to says that the "insurrection has a boundary marked by lines of bayonets, and which can be crossed only by force south of this line is 'enemies' territory, because it is claimed and held in possession by an organized, hostile and belligerent power" That is, if was simply hostile territory It did not belong to the rebels, for their insurrection could not impair the rights of sovereignty belonging to the United States The Court says (page 666) that "it is not necessary to constitute war that, that both parties should be acknowledged as independent nations or sovereign States" And again (page 669) "it is not necessary that the independence of the revolted province or State be acknowledged in order to constitute it a party belligerent in a war according to the laws of nations" Here is where the learned Beriah differs from the Supreme Court He holds that because the rebel States were regarded by the Government as 'enemies territory" for the purposes of war, they virtually became an "independent nation," and their people were "aliens"

But the decision which he appeals to to support his doctrines that the rebels "expatriated" themselves have become 'aliens,' is unfortunately for him one case, explicit against him We quote, (page 674)

All persons residing within this (hostile) territory whose property may be used to increase the resources of the hostile power are in this sense liable to be treated as enemies though not foreigners They have cast off their allegiance and made war on their Government and are none the less enemies because they are traitors

The words "alien" and 'foreigner" are precisely alike in meaning Here we find the decision of the Supreme Court which the editor with a "secession record" refers to for the purpose of sustaining his position, declaring precisely the opposite doctrine! The insurrectionists are also called 'traitors," thus upsetting another of Beriah's favorite theories. He had better stick to the resolutions of '98 and let Supreme Court decisions alone But before he quite abandons them will he just state where that decision may be found which declares that "when the war ceased the enemy's territory" was restored to the Union and that the 'aliens' were thereby made citizens of the United States?" Let us know about this Cannot the 'veteran indulge one in labor more." Let's have it It is so easy you know to cite from Supreme Court decisions, but easy as it is it will be some time before Beriah gratifies his readers with citations from any opinion of this sort It is quite needless to say that no such opinion has ever been rendered

REPUBLICAN PAPERS SOUTH —The Washington Republican has the annexed

Seven years ago there was not a thorough Republican paper south of Mason and Dixon's line Now there are in the unreconstructed States alone over one hundred such papers, dailies and weeklies They are edited by gifted and thorough radicals, several of them being conducted by colored men Every one of these organs are devoted to popular education and to the development of the inexhaustible resources of a region heretofore almost entirely given up to the cultivation of two or three staples, the profits of which were used to increase the political influence of a few and to aid to the political degredation of the many When it is recollected that the most of these newspapers have been established since the passage of the Acts of reconstruction, we have not only an additional argument in favor of that wholesome legislation but an additional argument against the tyranny which seeks to obstruct and destroy it

Among the difficulties which the English Army will be compelled to endure in the Abyssinian expedition, are said to be the bilharzia hæma topia, the trichocephalus dispar, and the filaria medinensis

Letter from Olympia

OLYMPIA, Dec 7 '67

Much dissatisfaction is expressed by the people throughout the Sound country on account of the steamer New World having been sold into the hands of the old monopoly Whose fault is it? The New World was bought by parties of small means, who had the contract of carrying the U S mail from Olympia to Victoria at moderate figures They expected and deserved the patronage of the public for they made a great reduction in the price of freights and reduced fare to $5, where $15 had been wrung out of the traveling public by the old company At this reduced rate the World could have made a fair living, had she been patronized But the monopoly, which had grown rich by its extortionate rates, had also grown into the belief that they had the exclusive right to run a steamboat between Olympia and Victoria So they immediately put fare down to $1 and freights at proportionate rates The selfish public, unable to withstand the temptation, bit greedily at the bait, and assisted in raising the cloth that was to break their own heads A large share of the business was given to the monopoly, whose wealth would enable them to run a great while for nothing Everybody knew the World was not able to run without support, everybody was anxious that the World should run, and these same everybodies had been long clamoring against monopolies The result is known—the fine steamer New World now lies at anchor, owned by the monopoly, and the traveling public have to go on the miserably uncomfortable old Anderson at high rates, and now Puget Sound belongs to a monopoly So are nearly all the waters of our coast to the hands of close-fisted monopolists But it is more the fault of the public than the monopolists that our waters are not free, as they have the power to make them so from Monticello to Olympia is absolutely shameful It is by far the most important road in the Territory, connecting Puget Sound and British Columbia with Oregon and California, and yet it is almost impassable There is not a sufficient number of persons living along the road to keep it up, much less to build it The Legislature is now in session, and it is fully aware of the importance of this road and of its need of improvement. They have respectfully asked Congress for money to improve it, but as yet Congress has refused to grant it. The Legislature is about to pass another memorial, again asking Congress for an appropriation; but it is more than probable that they will decide that the Government has enough to do to pay the interest on the national debt and will leave us all to build our own roads Therefore the Legislature had better study the moral to the fable of the "Fox and Lark," and cease to fag on others and go to work for themselves The Territory is amply able to render some assistance in making this, one of her main thoroughfares, decidedly passable The mail contractors have for years spent about their profits from carrying the United States mail in keeping up and improving this road, for so it is quite doubtful whether the honorable members could have made their way to the Legislature without going around by sea.

[illegible] a great deal of value in the land along the line of this road yet [illegible], that would soon be settled by enterprising people if there was a good road through the country. As a matter of economy alone, therefore, the territorial government ought to appropriate a few of those same dollars towards making a good road from the Columbia to the Sound. The additional population that would be gained, the [illegible] value of land, and the greater amount of taxable property would in a few years, more than repay with interest.

ABANDONED LANDS IN THE SOUTH General Howard, with the official approval of General Grant, has sent the following important circular letter to Sub-Commissioners of the Freedmen's Bureau

"Sir As there is still quite an amount of abandoned property on your returns, and much of it occupied by former owners who subscribed it, according to the definition of the law, and who through contempt of the Government of the United States and the President's authority, decline to make any applications under the orders approved by him for its restoration you are hereby instructed to give notice to all such persons, through your officers and agents that the property, under the above orders of abandonment, held by the Government, and now on your returns, will be taken formal possession of the 1st of January next, and vested to refugees and freedmen, in accordance with the provisions of law In case they make application in accordance with law formal restoration will be immediately made and reported to this office."

It may be added, with reference to the foregoing order, that the amount of these abandoned lands on the record of the Bureau is upward of 250 000 acres Most of it is of poor quality and heretofore very little of it has yielded any revenue to the Government

TO BE STACKS —It was formerly the custom in England to appoint certain persons to examine the bodies of the dead, in order to ascertain and report the cause of death Such persons were termed "body searchers" In the time of the great plague, in 1665, which swept off upwards of one hundred and thirty thousand people, this important and dangerous office was performed by the "chirurgeons," or surgeons, who were allowed for each service twelve pence to be paid out of the estate of the deceased person, or by the parish in case he left no property It is said that one of these searchers, who resided in the name of Snacks found his business increase so much that he could not attend to it alone He therefore offered to share the profits equally with any one who would take an equal part in the labor and the danger Those who joined him were said to go with Snacks" or more briefly "to go Snacks' and hence the phrase came to mean 'to divide the spoils in equal proportion," or to 'go shares' in which sense it has become proverbial —Oliver Optic's Magazine

READY TO FIGHT FOR HIS FLAG —An amusing scene occurred at the theater on Friday evening, on the occasion of the production of the "French Spy" At one point in the play, the Algerines make an attack on the French camp, and capture the flag tear it down and trample it under foot This was too much for the patriotism of a gallant tar belonging to the French corvette Bouvet who was in the gallery, and rushing down to the stage he gave vent to his indignation in the most vehement manner rattling away to the actors in French with an occasional expletive in English saying that 'that flag was very near his heart' and offering, single-handed and alone, to fight the whole company Another tar head who was present, and comprehending the true state of the case, hastened to pacify him and to explain how matters stood He finally cooled down, watched the result of the play, and at its close applauded as loudly as anybody —Bonger (Me) Weekly, October 22d

The soiled linen of the Grand Hotel the Hotel du Louvre the Grand Cafe, and a few of the other hotels and cafes in Paris, is washed at the rate of forty thousand pieces a day, at the Blanchisserie de Courcelles, three miles or so from the Gare Terminus of the Western railway The linen is boiled with soap and soda, and then washed in hollow wheels rinsed, partly dried by the centrifugal machines, and for the rest in hot air ovens, which carry off nearly three pounds of moisture per pound of coal burned and is finally ironed between polished rollers, and then packed ready for return to Paris This establishment, the most complete of its kind to be found, employs three hundred workpeople

A curious typographical error recently appeared in a daily paper In giving an account of an inquest it was stated "The deceased bore an accidental character, and the jury returned a verdict of excellent death"

The Contest Approaching.

We publish to-day a call for a meeting of the Union State Central Committee, to be held in this city on the 15th of December. It is deemed important to take early action in order that the organization of the party in every county may be perfect in good season for an active, energetic campaign. With harmonious and vigorous action, we can carry the State by a handsome majority in June, and make it certain for the national nominees in November. The question which will be brought home to every Union man in the elections of 1868 is: Shall we give up the fruits of the great struggle and suffer a combination composed of those who fought to destroy the country, and of those who sympathized with their traitorous work, to take possion of and control the Government which they tried to overthrow? There is no other question. All other matters are simply collaterals. Is the spirit which animated the rebellion to rule in this country? Rather, are the very men who perpetrated the rebellion to be rewarded for it? A triumph of this combination in the national election would be an endorsement of their acts, and a declaration that those who stood by the Government and the Union were in the wrong. Will Union men submit to be thus stigmatized? If they would avert this result they must be vigilant and active in working for their party. A tremendous effort will be made next year to reverse the decision of the war. This effort is now making, and we cannot begin too soon to meet it. Therefore it is time to commence organising in every precinct. From every localities we hear good reports already. Let our friends be assured that there is no way to get out the full vote of the party, viz: by work. Those counties will invariably render the best return where most activity is manifested in the canvass. Hitherto the Union party has done very little real work to prepare for elections. Let apathy be exchanged for energy now, and we shall obtain a complete triumph.

WHAT IS HE DRIVING AT?—A short time ago a writer of the same stamp that is making at Walla Walla and Lewiston for the annexation of North Idaho to Washington Territory, we designated that portion of the first named Territory which extends in a long narrow strip between Washington and Montana as the "Pan Handle." Of course everybody understood that this appellation was intended from that portion of West Virginia which lies between Pennsylvania and the Ohio river; but it, strangely but the writer of the Lewiston paper no doubt stood it. But he thinks we used it as a "slur," and indignantly asserts that "nobody but everybody." What in the name of all the "prurient prudes" is Mr. Idaho can the Lewiston paper find in the phrase "Pan Handle," that savors of the "slur" which it feels and begs us not? As it is true that "everybody understands everybody," that paper ought to be thankful that by saying an impure thing we are going to refer to it, which only also would think of interpreting in the same manner. What can the fellow be driving at? Evidently, he has never heard of the "Pan Handle" of the Old Dominion."

The Editor of the Herald quotes at great length from his San Francisco article in the San Francisco Bulletin to show that he did not deny the right of the Government to exclude rebelling States. Alluding to one of his articles, he says:

It will be noted by this, that while admitting that the Federal Government had no power to subjugate States in the Union, it was not prohibited from warring upon [illegible] of Power.

What, then, does this mean, from the Press of June 28, 1866:

"We [illegible] the [illegible] Power of the Government, or put down insurrection, [illegible] of the armed States to the Union by force of arms is all false, and aimed at the [illegible] on which the States was founded.

[illegible] of the whole matter is that the South was a full blown sea slonist, and was [illegible] it by shooting his [illegible] ing in a [illegible] of words. This explains it all.

A SUITABLE CANDIDATE.—As it is stated that the managers of the Democratic party deem it necessary to make a military man their candidate for the Presidency, and are looking anxiously for the right man, perhaps they could not do better than to "tender" the Abolitionists "their Boss," as they did in 1861. There are [illegible] why he would make a fitting candidate for the party, of some of which the following note is suggestive:

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 13, 1862.

Hon. Wm. P. Miles, Richmond, Va.—Has the bill for the execution of Abolition prisoners, after [illegible] been passed? Do it, and England [illegible] this year. It is high time to proclaim the bloody flag after that period. Let the [illegible] then be with the Garrote.

P. T. BEAUREGARD.

The following [illegible] and now is apocryphally stated to have taken place between the proprietor and the late manager of the Herald:

"HERALD OFFICE, Oct. 20, 1867.

"MY DEAR SIR: Where are you these days? I fear you are too fond of your yacht for the position I have assigned you on my paper.

JAS. GORDON BENNETT."

"DELMONICO'S, Oct. 23, 1867.

"DEAR FATHER: I am otherwise and more agreeably engaged than as manager of your paper, particularly as in your journal that this establishment does not advertise in the New York Herald. JAS. GORDON BENNETT, JR."

Under Radical rule, says the Pittsburg Post, the people pay State taxes, city taxes, town taxes, revenue taxes, school taxes, direct taxes, taxes, to support the Negroes, to support Congress, and taxes on all they eat, wear, or use in any way, either for themselves or their families.

What impudence these Copperheads have! They know, and everybody knows that our heavy national debt, are the results of the attempt of the Democratic party to overthrow the Government and destroy liberty.

DEAD.—The Record of Thursday has the following:

MR. T. W. AVERY, a member of the Legislature from Umatilla county, died on Sunday, the 8th, at the residence of his father-in-law. Mr Avery had been suffering with an affection of the throat and lungs for several years. As a politician he was unobtrusive as a democrat. As a man he had a kind heart and many genial qualities.

A Democratic paper having asserted that "General Sherman is the coming man," the Lathrange (Ga.) Reporter replies: "We shall be sorry if he comes this way again; we don't want to see him."

From the Upper Columbia.

SPOKANE RIVER, Nov. 27, 1867.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Since I wrote you last, the miners from Libby creek, (the new Kootenai mines,) who went from this part of the country, have returned. Some of them brought the evidences of gold existing there. One man I heard of, who went to Bitter Root valley, carried with him $100 which he took out of Libby creek. There will be quite a little camp there next season, and on the adjacent streams. I have heard of good prospects having been obtained on the Yack, quite a large stream, this side of there, and which is crossed in going to the former mines. It is also a tributary of the Kootenai river. One thing that strengthens my belief, is, that nearly every man who went to Libby from this valley, says he intends returning in the spring. One great disadvantage they all labored under, was, there was not a pound of quicksilver in the camp, and the gold being scale or float gold, full one-half of it was lost on that account. It is impossible, they say, to save it without using quicksilver.

Some twenty-six wagons of German emigrants, numbering one hundred and fifty persons, came over the Coeur d'Alene mountains, and passed by here a few days since on their way to Southern Oregon. I believe on account of the lateness of the season and the exhausted condition of their stock, they have concluded to winter somewhere in the Walla Walla valley.

We have had no snow yet in this valley. The grass looks green and stock is faring well. Stock of all kinds is fat. At my present writing there are indications of snow, though we usually have but little to lie on the ground before the middle of December. The recent rains have caused a rise of some ten inches in the Spokane river.

The steamer Mary Moody will make her last trip this week, when she will be laid up until spring. Some portions of the engines will be taken to the Dalles or Portland for repairs. The Mary Moody has been quite a convenience to the packers and travelers this season.

I have heard that a petition, quite largely signed, will be presented to Congress the present session for an appropriation for the contemplated thoroughfare, connecting the Columbia river with the Pen d'Oreille Lake and Montana Territory. This work should engage the the most earnest attention of our delegate, Mr. Flanders, and your Oregon Senators. If something is not done to accomplish it, the interests of the Pacific coast will suffer by its defeat. Get a good wagon road once through and let persons see a good and safe chance to get through, and it will greatly stimulate emigration to the Pacific coast. The northern route by way of Fort Benton is by far the safest and surest route for immigrants to reach this coast. The immigrants who have lately crossed the mountains have had a hard time of it. They had a great deal of fallen timber to clear out of the road. The road is very miry and bad at this time. Travel has ceased entirely on it.

There is no question that a much cheaper, better and more durable road could be made by laying it through the Pen d'Oreille pass, where nothing like the same altitude need be attained—several thousand feet less, at least. It would have another good effect—it would come in competition with the steamboat company, and would have a beneficial tendency in regulating the prices of freight, etc., and thereby prevent a monopoly on the part of that company. A good pack trail is already built along by the bad rock, which I am credibly informed can be completed for wagons at several thousand dollars additional outlay. A weekly mail was carried over this same route last winter, and from Walla Walla to Missoula City and on to Helena. It is now being carried twice a week. The mail is carried, when the steamer is running, by the Mary Moody as far as the Cabinet. When the steamer ceases running, a small boat will take her place until the opening of navigation in the spring. OBSERVER.

Mr. Pendleton and the Public Debt.

As we purpose to quote a paragraph from a late speech delivered by George H. Pendleton, we hope to obtain for a moment the attention of some Democratic readers. In a late address at Milwaukee (Wis.) Mr. Pendleton said:

The public debt amounts to one-fifth of all the property, real and personal, of every man and woman and child in the country; and yet one-fifth of the whole capital of the country—that capital so well able to bear taxation—which labors from the first day of January to the last day of December, in summer and winter, through storm and sunshine, by night and day, which knows no weariness, seeks no repose, is not subject to the disease and pains and accidents which afflict the muscles and bones of men, whose owner, though he toils not nor yet spins, is clothed like Solomon in all his glory—one-fifth of all this capital is exempt from taxation.

This is precisely the manner in which Oregon Democrats have been accustomed to talk about the debt and taxes. If any of them have followed us so far as to read the paragraph cited above from Mr. Pendleton's speech, we beg that they will also read and consider the following short paragraph from an Eastern Journal, which was written as a commentary upon Mr. Pendleton's words. It contains in substance the views we have often expressed through these columns; and it puts the whole case in a form so comprehensive, and yet so brief and simple, that it will give no person any trouble to comprehend it. We think even the Herald may, by a little application, understand the subject as here presented. We quote:

If the public debt is one-fifth of the property and capital of the country—if it is one-fifth of capital at all—then the greater the debt the greater the capital, and the national debt, as an addition of so much capital to the previous capital of the country, becomes a national blessing. If it is not capital, but simply debt, can a nation in debt pay its debts by levying taxes on what it owns? Will not every dollar of tax levied on the public debt distract by the amount of the tax from the gold value of the bonds, and consequently increase the amount of the bonds necessary to carry the debt? and will not the interest on this increased amount of bonds, or the increased rate of interest on the bonds now outstanding, exactly offset the taxes they can be made to pay, so as to make the result the same to the tax-payer? If not, then Pendleton has discovered a secret, more valuable than the philosopher's stone, viz: that of living on the interest of what we owe.

THE INTERNAL HEAT OF THE EARTH.—Dr. Julius Schavarez read a paper on this subject before the British Association, in which he concludes that the different corollaries of the central-fire doctrine were not adequate to explain the different groups of natural phenomena for the sake of which these corollaries were deemed essential 50 years ago. He adds some suggestions as to how experiments should be made in order to ascertain the temperature of the earth at different depths, simultaneously in different quarters of the globe. Sir Charles Lyell says he was glad to know that the subject of underground temperature was to be taken up at the British Association. He had long been convinced that, so far as the evidence now goes, there is an increase of temperature very generally as we descend from the surface of the earth as far into the interior as we can enter, but it is a mistake to suppose that the best observation indicates a uniform increase. That he believed, would be one of the results of the inquiry but it would also be a great point to ascertain what was the amount of temperature at different places.

The Washington Chronicle says that John Minor Botts visited the rooms of the committee on reconstruction, and gave a different version of the declarations attributed to him in the copperhead papers. He said that the war of races had been commenced in the south, but that it had been commenced by the whites alone, and that the moderation of the colored people was extraordinary and wholly without example. He stated that two intelligent colored blacksmiths were informed that if they voted for him as a delegate to the convention, their places of business would be destroyed. They did vote for him, and the next evening their shops were burned to the ground.

In Augusta J. Evans' new novel this is said to be the opening sentence: "When the Infinite reaches down to the Actual, and discovers the dwarfing of an Ideal in his corporate creatures, the heterogenity of Man becomes oadiuous to the Eternal circumambient emanations." After the elucidation of the entity, the supersensible soul becomes self-conscious to the esoteric soul, of course—a great truth we have always longed to have revealed.

A young clerk lately made a sketch on the wall of a room in the Paris House where bankers clerks assembled. It depicted L. N. B. a la Blondin blind folded, balancing Bismarck on one end of his pole, against Garibaldi on the other. The police found out the youth, prosecuted him and invited his employers to discharge him.

Wendell Phillips pithily observes: "The Republican party have abolished the slave; the difficulty is they have not abolished the master.

Miss Flite's case has a parallel in France. A certain Mlle. Solis has been hunting courts of law for thirty years, claiming a large property. She was stigmatized as a monomaniac, but persevered, and now gets judgment for a million and a half francs.

FROM MR. PITTOCK.—I have used some of Henley's Royal Balsam in my family, and think it is splendid medicine for children, as well as for grown persons. For coughs and colds I freely recommend it to the public. H. PITTOCK.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.—This important document reviews many serious questions now pending in our country, advising a reduction of taxes on a number of articles, and even not omitting to proclaim to the citizens of Oregon that KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 Front street, under all circumstances have proved themselves worthy of the largest shares of custom by selling the very best and latest styles of Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods; also, Dry Goods lower than any other house in the State.

Bushtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Rumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

PROCLAMATION!!!

I've come, my dear people, among you once more,
Keeping up the good cust — established of yore
I bid you all welcome! I wish you good cheer
A right merry Christmas and Happy New Year!
You will find me this year, as you have heretofore,
At McCormick's, on Front street—the Franklin Book Store
Where I've opened my Budget—'twas filled to the brim
With every nice Toy that could talk, walk or swim.
I've Mariteal Work Boxes and Guitars for the fair
And Gifts for the Gents that are both rich and rare,
Whilst my Budget includes the nicest new Toys
Intended as Gifts to good Girls and Boys:
I've the Ark in which Grandfather Noah was kept
When all other creatures from the world were swept,
(For men in those days would in evil persist,
So the world was washed by an Oregon twist!)
I've Bobbies of Rubber, of wax and of leather,
(They were all made to order), and well put together;
I've Vases and Cups nicely gilded outside,
And little Cock Horses for Bobbies to ride;
I've Cannon and Pistols which cannot explode,
For the powder they hold neither wadding or load.
I've steamboats that run—you just wind them in front
And they'll beat the Ocanada or the Wilson G. Hunt.
I've a new Locomotive—It can never explode,
'Twas built for the use of Gaston's Railroad,
I've Engines that play—Set them down on the floor
And they'll throw greater streams than old '2' or new '4.'
I've Furniture, Fiddles, and French Fusileers,
Soldiers that look like K. B. Pioneers.
I've Swords made of tin—Guns and Pistols as well,
And the new kind of Drum that rings like a bell.
I've Masks of all sizes—I've Grace Hoops, galore,
And you'll find at McCORMICK'S a thousand Toys more,
On FRONT STREET the Store is—105,
Where TOYS are as plenty as bees in a hive;
Go there and buy them—this is my request,
His Prices are Low and his Stock is the Best.

SHIPMENTS TO THE PACIFIC COAST.—The Bulletin of the latest date received contains a statement gathered from the Bureau of Statistics at Washington, of the shipments of domestic commodities from New York to the Pacific coast via the Isthmus of Panama, for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1867. The tables foot up the value of $34,276,421. The shipments of foreign commodities aggregate $6,017,285. The Bulletin says: "The values are given in currency, and the aggregate of the Domestic commodities, in gold equivalents, equals $24,490,152. The gold value of the foreign goods is equal to $6,368,781. This amount is embraced in the figures which we recently published of the imports of foreign goods into this port. The two items of importations then combine as follows, with an approximate statement of the goods received by rail from the East:

Foreign goods by steam.....$24,480,152
Foreign goods.....14,856,188
Eastern, per sail, estimate.....14,363,109
$53,384,449
Freights.....7,356,507
Total.....$60,940,956

This is an approximation of the amount of goods purchased in a year for this coast of intrinsic price, and which is covered by the exports of produce and treasure. The value of cotton manufactures imported is about $8,000,000 foreign and domestic, and some $5,000,000 worth of clothing."

POSTAL MATTERS.—We are informed by Postal Agent Burke of the following recent appointments, etc., within his district, viz:

W. C. Painter has been appointed Postmaster at Walla Walla, Walla Walla county, vice Hon. Alvan Flanders, elected to C

Robert L. Yantis has been appointed Postmaster at Pierce City, Nez Perce county, Idaho.

A new P[illegible] has been established at Camp Watson, Grant county, Oregon, and Charles F. West appointed P[illegible]

C[illegible]s Mr. Burke has forwarded commissions to the following P[illegible] notices of whose appointments have heretofore been [illegible]: W. [illegible], Chas. Caldwell, Waverly, Marion county, Oregon; Alfred Shumway, French Ranch, Nez Perces county, Idaho; Philip Fryer, Eagle Creek, Clackamas county, Oregon; John S. Fisher, Lawrence, Clackamas county, Oregon; Franklin O. Purdy, [illegible] county, W. T.; Peter J. Ridings, Glad Tidings, [illegible] county, Oregon; Miss Mary McPhail's, Snowden's Prairie, Thurston county, W. T.; Stephen S. Fouch, Florence City, Idaho county Idaho; Charles Cutting, Sr., Cuttingsville, Clackamas county, Oregon.

OREGON.—We have been shown a very handsome map of "McMillen's Addition" to the town of Oregon, [illegible] by C. W. Burrage, surveyor and engineer. The addition is situated to the [illegible] a half mile above the iron works on very favorable ground fronting the river, where the bank is just above the high water mark. The river all along in front is twenty-five to thirty feet deep near the shore, so that the landing will be an excellent one. The only record of the plat shows that the river front is to be always open for levee purposes. The streets are sixty feet wide, running exactly with the cardinal points of the compass. The blocks are 400 feet long by 210 feet in [illegible], with an alley running through the middle of each. On the high parts of the plat there is a beautiful spring of water. The town will be [illegible] round enough to supply the entire village, if every lot were occupied. The [illegible] is running at right angles with the river, and [illegible] by letters of the alphabet; the streets running [illegible] with the river are numbered, 1st, 2d, 3d, etc. The plat is a pleasant one every way, and should the village of Oregon [illegible] a town of importance, as there is every reason to believe, property in the addition of Mr. McMillen will be valuable.

[illegible] OF THE WATERMAN COMMISSION.—We are not inclined to the precipitance of the Railroad Committee of the Wednesday evening, but are thankful to say that the discussions were quite harmonious and the [illegible] arrived at were such as will probably gratify all those who are advocating railroad interests, in good faith. The subject of a canal was [illegible] upon, and a majority of the board [illegible] to submit its proper shape. [illegible] of a series of resolutions which, as we understand the matter, will set forth the [illegible] of the grounds [illegible] for its action and the support of [illegible], and close with a request [illegible] were to meet their influence to procure [illegible] action. The resolutions, in short, will constitute a [illegible] to Congress on the subject of railroads in Oregon. The public meeting called for Saturday evening, and to which the Committee was directed to report, has been postponed to Saturday, the 21st, to give the Committee time to perfect their report. To that meeting all interested in any way in railroad matters are invited.

MASONIC ONE FESTIVAL.—After the [illegible] of the Royal Arch Degree lodge last evening, the members and a few [illegible] sat down to a splendid supper at the American Exchange. The tables were set for 250 people, and there were very few not occupied; the lodge numbered not less than 225, and of that number there were only three or four who were not members of the order. The Fraternity meeting was probably the largest ever held in this State. The proceedings from first to last were characterized by the usual spirit of good will and brotherhood that is peculiar to the order of Odd Fellows. After the supper a [illegible] of regular toasts were read by Mr. J. S. Fitzhugh, and responses were made by J. M. Bacon, A. J. Mc[illegible], D. C. Ireland, J. N. [illegible], Gov. Woods, J. H. Mitchell and others. The occasion was a very happy one, and everyone present, and particularly the proprietor of the Exchange, did himself great credit by the handsome style in which he got up the affair.

ARRIVAL.—Dr. S. White[illegible] has been appointed Surgeon for the [illegible] Department of Washington [illegible], and probably be assigned to the Olympia [illegible] Seattle. The Doctor arrived down [illegible] last evening, and will probably go on to [illegible] on Monday. He was, during the [illegible] of the late war, [illegible] to surgeon, first in the Washington Territory regiment, and afterward in the Oregon. [illegible] Since his muster out, he has been engaged in the practice of his profession at Albany. We [illegible] the Doctor, while in the army, and we feel particularly gratified at his selection for the place.

NAVIGATION.—The Willamette river has been lower [illegible] the last month and a half than ever before known at this season of the year. Navigation, in consequence, has been difficult and expensive to the company. They have, however, kept their [illegible] regularly [illegible], without regard to the expense of the wear and tear of boats. Since the rains of this week began, the river has risen enough to make navigation easy, and [illegible] now look for regular and [illegible] and [illegible] transportation.

[illegible] FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamer Ajax, Wm. Metzger, Commander, sailed for San Francisco, from the mouth of the Willamette river, last evening, with the following list of passengers: N. Perine, Jno. Bacon, W. B. Scott and wife, M. E. Traver, C. W. Alsey, P. H. Crawford, J. T. Scott, Rev. E. Lee, John White and wife, Mrs. M. Meier and child, J. C. Baldwin, W. E. Sherwin, R. S. Cornier, Mrs. Eliza Beckwith and servant, M. A. Fi[illegible]ld (Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger) and 26 in the [illegible].

FIRE TRIAL.—Protection Engine Co., No. 4, had their new steamer out last evening, subjecting her to a thorough test. The work done was eminently satisfactory and the company is delighted with its acquisition. [illegible] was thrown through two lengths of hose, each fifty feet long, from the cistern at the junction of Morrison and First streets to near Alder st. The [illegible] of this piece of machinery, and [illegible] as perfect as this [illegible]

A NEW MILLING ENTERPRISE.—We learn that a joint stock company has been organized at Hillsboro, for the purpose of building a steam flouring mill. Articles of [illegible] were drawn up and s[illegible] yesterday. We [illegible] as to the amount of capital stock, nor when work is to be begun. Washington county produces [illegible] wheat to keep such an establishment going, and we do not doubt but it will prove an excellent investment.

OREGON BRANCH RAILROAD.—The corporators of the Oregon branch of the Pacific Railroad Co. held a meeting [illegible] day, at the office of Gibbs & Parrish. The only business transacted was a resolution to memorialize Congress for a subsidy similar to that given the Union [illegible] and the Central Pacific Railroad companies. We learn that no election of directors and officers will be held until the stock shall be all subscribed.

[illegible] ELECTION.—Portland Royal Arch Chapter No. 4, last evening elected the following officers for the ensuing year: C. H. Lewis, M. E. H. P.; J. H. Couch, [illegible] H. F. Block, Scribe; A. B. Richardson, C. H.; P. G. Schuyler, P. S.; H. Sager, R. A. C.; A. G. [illegible] M. 3d Veil; H. F. Goodwin, M. 2d Veil; J. H. [illegible] M. 1st Veil; F. C. Ainsworth, Treasurer; [illegible], Secretary; F. Nauche, Sentinel.

WILLAMETTE PRODUCE.—Arrived per steamer Alert, [illegible], from Oregon City, 9 bales wooden goods, 48 bbls and 112 boxes miscellaneous produce, 1,736 qr sks flour, 661 bags oats, 227 boxes apples, 12 casks pork, 108 [illegible] tarred sacks, 5 sks dried apples, 78 bags wheat.

POSTAL.—We received a mail last evening from Mr. Glover, the chief spirit in the Oregon Central Railroad Company (west side the river). He is full of confidence that the road by way of the Tualatin Plains, will be built before any other in Oregon.

PROPANE.—The Unionist, in speaking of the great [illegible] of beavers in a neighborhood of Marion county, says: "They are a great pest to farmers, with their dambuilding." Why couldn't the editor mention the fact without swearing?

FROM BELOW.—The steamer Ranger towed the schooner Chasseur from the Cowlitz river to this city last night. She is from Astoria, with tan-bark to the John's tannery [illegible] Portland.

MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.—We call particular attention to the fact that all persons who take life insurance policies in the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, prior to the middle of January next, will share in the dividends to be declared on the 1st of February, 1868. The dividends can be applied to decrease the next annual payment or to increase the amount of the policy. Apply to Butler & Heath, Agents for Oregon and the Territories.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital [illegible],000. Paid up capital, $100,000. E. M. DuBall, President; C. W. Moore, Cashier. Collections of Notes and [illegible] on the principal [illegible] in Idaho Territory promptly attended to. Exchange for Gold or Currency on this Bank can be purchased of Ladd & Tilton, Portland, Or[illegible]

ORIGIN OF TOASTS.—The London Athenæum gives the following as the origin of the custom of toasts:

"Originally the 'toast' was material, and had nothing to do with sentiment. It was the bit of browned biscuit which floated on every flowing bowl of punch. In King William's or Queen Anne's days, as the fashionable loungers in the great bath, in the city of Bladud, where tarting in the hot water, or taking their chocolate on the floating cork slabs, or reading the Gazette as they sat on the invisible seats in the water, they were startled and delighted by the apparition of a fair nymph who entered the bath in the most [illegible] tish of dresses, and looking as a goddess or Amphritite herself when she glided along the deep.

The fine gentlemen, especially, did her honor, according to the rough humor of the times. They dipped their cups into the water nearest where the delighted nymph herself stood, and drank the liquid off to her honor and glory. Among the eager lookers-on from the gallery was a young fellow in the most resplendent of birthday suits, patch, powder and sword; and drawing the latter, he exclaimed, with all figures and flowers of liberal speech then in common use, that he did not care a fico for the liquor, but that he resolved to have a taste of the toast in it. This was meant for the lady in the bath, whom the rude gallant thus inkoned to the browned biscuit that in those days crowned the punch. As the speaker looked as if he were about to put his speech into action, there was a general scattering of the nymphs of the stream, with attendant screams and breathless pauses in flight, as much inviting pursuit as they seemed to dread it; and there was a calling of beaus for their swords, and a scrambling preparation to defend the lady from the loud-voiced gallant. He, the while, swaggered rascily off to the King's Head, where nobody troubled him; but the story spread through the city, and from that day the word 'toast' was applied to a lady to whom drinking honors were rendered, till it gradually came to mean the words in which the honor was paid."

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER

THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS!

At this period there are but few of the human race unacquainted with the merits of the Pain Killer; but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and when alone, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of Family Medicines, and its sale is universal and immense. The demand for it from India and other foreign countries is equal to the demand at home, and it has become known in these far off places by its merits.

An Evening at a London Pawnbroker's.

The author of "A Night in the Workhouse," which created considerable interest in England at the time of its appearance, has published in the London Society in account of a Saturday evening passed by him in a London pawnbroker's shop. This description is full of mournful interest, as our mind wanders from the actual scene and follows the retiring guests to their homes of misery and vice:

"It is a corner house, and the shop, which faces the high street, is an innocent jeweler's shop and nothing more. There are neatly written cards in the window variously inscribed, 'jewelry repaired,' 'watch glasses fitted,' 'ladies' ears pierced,' etc.; so that even though one should happen to be seen entering Mr. Gawler's shop—nay, even though an inquisitive brute should be mean enough to spy from outside, and see one hand his 'dent' to Mr. Gawler, and receive in exchange for it a neatly folded bit of pasteboard—the evidence of the pawning would be anything but complete; watch-glasses will come to grief, and watch works need repair, and it is the commonest thing in the world for the watchmaker to give the owner a memorandum as security for his property."

But it is not on watch and trinket pawners that Mr. Gawler relies for his business. "Up the street, by the side of the innocent-looking jeweler's shop—a longish way up the street—is a meanlooking doorway, that might be the entrance to a back yard. That it is something more than this, however, may be at once perceived by the stone threshold worn through to the brick beneath, and the doorpost paint-rubbed and grimy of elbow grease. This is the poor pawners' entrance." On Saturday night, when the laborers receive their week's work, this shop becomes a scene of unusual activity. Many of the articles pawned during the week are redeemed, to be again pawned when the earnings of the week shall have been expended. In a long line of little boxes the appraisers stand concealed from view, save their hands, which are thrust through small apertures to deliver the tickets and receive the goods. "It was an odd sight to see this long row of grimy fists and tattered gowns and jackets and coat cuffs all poked towards the shopman and beckoning him coaxingly. Beginning at box number one David began the collection of the little squares of pasteboard with both his hands, and "hand over hand" as one may say, with a dexterity only to be acquired by a constant practice, crying out "Tickets! tickets! tickets!" all the while. By the time he had perambulated the length of the shop and looked at all the boxes, he had gathered as many tickets as his fists could hold, and at once turned to a back counter where stood John (the other shopman.) The tickets were then sorted and all the heavier articles brought from the cellar, the lighter from the garret, and jewelry from the strong room, and distributed to the applicants as rapidly as possible. During the time the order of the evening still was worst and your person in which it was necessary to wait for a day or two, Mr. Brown being a householder, has found it necessary to pawn the table linen by bribing to one of her customers, and not having money at her command to redeem the [illegible], has it convenient to "put away" the [illegible] of another customer, and thus make matters worse. On Monday she will redeem the [illegible] of another customer number two by pawning the [illegible] of number three. Or, again, as for instance, the Brownes are asked by the G[illegible] to dine and have a bit of dinner to-morrow, and have accepted the invitation; but Brown has made a bad week; has not earned enough, in fact, to get out his Sunday coat and the children's [illegible]. He won't want his working clothes [illegible] Monday, and on Monday out he goes to [illegible] 'they won't miss the hearth-rug.' Again there are [illegible] to the rule altogether. Saturday night is a yielding time for poor mother. No week like [illegible] week before. Not [illegible] any. No dinner to-morrow no dinner on Sunday, even in a Whitechapel street alley; the [illegible] is busy with the 'Arm of the Lamb,' and by two o'clock you won't find a little [illegible] that is not pawned. It is [illegible] employer mother, a bit of hot dinner must be got on Sunday. So she waits till dark and then slips [illegible] of sixpence, carries her [illegible] to Mr. Gawler, and gets from the second [illegible] in the [illegible] and [illegible] the door-strewing for the boards [illegible] and browning over into the passage; and the number of ticket-grasping fists that thrust [illegible] over the counter was enough to appall any but a pawnbroker's returns as Uncle Gawler, and his brother [illegible] small-faced salesman, of the latter sort, begging and abetting of David to take their tickets, at the same time pouring into his ear the various domestic business on which their need for money was based. Shrill-visaged women, of the worst sort, dirty-faced, baby-bearing, gin-and-peppy mothers, brawling, bawling, driving their elbows into other people's ribs, and trampling on their feet."

MEAN STREAK IN A BOARDING HOUSE.—A lady, who has lived awhile in California, Calcutta, or Ubique, [illegible] by [illegible] from her shop the other morning, about two o'clock, and springing from her bed, [illegible] out of her room, as disheabille, screaming at the top of her voice, "Murder! Help! Murder! Man in my room!" etc., etc. Under the circumstances this was quite natural, [illegible] such a mistake than one mistake of this kind had been committed in the house recently. Now, it appeared that no less than three husbands were absent when they should have been there, and consequently there was more or less wonder, mixed up with [illegible] of apprehension on the part of the wives, and some considerable wondering whether it was her husband who had thus forgotten himself or [illegible].

"Oh, I must up quickly," shouted the terrified female, holding on to the outside door-knob. "I've got him in."

"It's my Joey," said another disconsolate, "I'll learn him better. Confound these night [illegible], now he's been at one of them and has [illegible] the rest, and there I've been alone all night."

"Has he got whiskers?" anxiously asked the wife, upon reaching the landing of the upper floor.

"Yes, ma'am, a big bushy whiskers, laying right along side of my cheek when I awoke. Dear me, if my Alexander was here, he'd learn him better, I will warrant you."

"Joseph! Joseph! Josey!" shouted the wife at the door.

No answer came; not even a grunt, incident to [illegible].

"May be he jumped out of the window," [illegible] the four or five females, all at once, who made a splendid group of long white drapery.

"How! help! Bring a light—bring a light!" shouted several of the females.

Presently a light was brought, and several of the [illegible] assembled. [illegible] treatment as he had justly earned for himself.

The [illegible] was found, and in rushed the valiant squad, and sure enough the fellow was still in bed, with the top of his head just peeping above the sheet.

"Come out of here, you scoundrel!" said one of the [illegible], at the same time grasping him by the hair.

The tableau was strikingly interesting and graphic.

The [illegible] boarder almost fell from the impetus he had given himself, for, instead of jerking out a man, it was nothing more than a "frizzed chignon," which the lovely occupant of the bed had forgotten to take off when she retired for the night. It had been detached in her sleep, and grazing her hand, awakened her. The alarm, of course, was quite natural. The boarders had a hearty laugh, and all retired to happy dreams.—Philadelphia Post.

ALWAYS IN TROUBLE.—The Stockton (Cal.) Independent has the following. From the frequency with which these matrimonial troubles are mentioned in our telegraphic dispatches from that State, we have no doubt of the literal truth of the Independent's remarks:

The fair sex of this State seem constantly in trouble or, rather, determined to keep the men in trouble. Not a day passes but we read in the San Francisco papers of one or more cases of breach of promise and applications for divorce. What a dilemma the "lords of creation" in California are in—if they won't marry, they are sued for breach of promise; and if they do marry, the cause of divorce threatens them. Women are fastidious creatures, and their whims deserve a little judicious trimming.

A MISERLY LOVER.—A young lady recently of Elgin, Illinois, and at her funeral, when her relatives and friends were taking a last look at the loved face, a young man to whom she had been engaged, and who had presented her with an [illegible] ring but a short time before her death, deliberately bent over the corpse, and in the presence of all to the church removed the ring from her finger and walked off with it.

Few ladies are so modest as to refuse to set in the lap of luxury.

The Mississippi River Undermining Vicksburg.

The Vicksburg correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial writes as follows:

The denizens of the lower part of the city were lately quite alarmed by some decided indications that their part of the town was about to leave and cool itself in the waters of the Mississippi. A large fissure was discovered, extending from near the Washington Hotel, in a southwesterly course, to the neighborhood of the Prentiss House, or below it, embracing about four blocks. The earth for that whole space had fallen away several inches. Wooden houses were precipitately carried to one side; new and well built brick stores were cracked and rent from top to bottom, and a general giving way of the foundations seemed inevitable. Men's ignorance of the real extent of the evil no doubt made the danger seem much greater, as it gave room for the full play of the imagination.

This, too, was the burnt district, and had lately been swept over by the devouring flames. Now the bottom seemed to be falling out, and the great river stood ready to embrace levee, lots, stores, dwellings, people, all—first a fire, and then a deluge. Many people moved off from the crumbling bank with the most innocent speed. In their fright lest the river should engulf them, they stood little upon the order of going—they went. In the excitement of so great a calamity, the city fathers were called together; the best engineers were questioned, and two conclusions were reached: 1. That the horrible stench from the fissures indicated no inconsiderable affinity between the physical condition of those infernal regions and the moral condition of things above ground; though it is by no means affirmed that the weight of the bad morals of that Gomorrah caused the land slide. 2. That the fissure must be filled up, and the wound of the city cicatrized over, whatever should become of the mass of rottenness beneath. One of the best physicians riding over the sinking section (which might well be called the sink) was so impressed by the pretenceance that he was obliged to pause, consider and—[illegible].

This secession of that part of the city is indeed temporarily arrested, but the fear, hanging like a black cloud over the whole tract, lest, in some unlooked for moment, a sudden and swift enlargement of this land slide shall plunge them into the river, and leave only a big hole where so much of the city was, weighs like a burden on the minds of most people remaining there.

The cause of this movement is a mystery—but it is well known that under the hard blue clay that so generally underlies the alluvium at the surface there is quicksand, very mobile and easily washed out by any current striking against the bank, as is the case along this land slide. Then the weight of this vast superincumbent mass being no longer supported, breaks off from the main land and often tumbles into the river, often with a great crash, and producing a vast commotion in the waters. Such an occurrence, from precisely this cause, happened at Davis's Bend two years ago. A lot of sutlers were landed on the shore in apparent safety. All things appeared as for weeks before, but in a short time the bank, for three or four rods in width and several more rods in length, suddenly cracked off and fell into the river, carrying the goods and whatever else was on the bank, down into the swift current that sentered them all around the bend for 25 miles. This process has been continued on both sides of the "cut-off" until the whole breadth of the clay bed was thus broken up, and then the whole mighty current of the river swept through the new channel like a mill-dam, and 25 miles of the channel was at once saved to the steamboatmen. "The Bend" is now an island.

This [illegible] happened at Terrapin Creek last year, cutting off a bend of 18 miles; and thus, generally, is the crookedness of the river increased and diminished by precisely the same causes. Just such phenomena are often witnessed by steamboat travelers as they sweep around the large bends, and whenever the bank is "wearing away."

Mr. Andrew Johnson recommends that the American people set apart and observe Thursday, Nov. 28th, as a day of national thanksgiving. Among the reasons for gratitude to God which we do not find enumerated in his proclamation, we reckon the fact that on the day thus appointed, barely fifteen months and five days of Mr. Johnson's term will remain to be endured.—N. Y. Tribune.

THE ROYAL BALSAM!

HAS NOW BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR A length of time, and wherever used is highly recommended, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used; and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction, but, on the contrary, all are delighted with it and speak in the highest terms of its magical effects. The astonishing efficacy of the ROYAL BALSAM, in curing the diseases for which it is recommended entitles it to the highest rank among the list of medicines, and no family can be without it after once trying it.

☞ Read the following testimonials from some of the most prominent citizens of Oregon:

MIRACULOUS CURE.

DR. HENLEY—Dear Sir: I feel that it is duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my wife. She had been afflicted with a severe cough for several weeks, which had assumed a dangerous feature, for which many physicians have been trying without any material benefit, and all the remedies failed to give her any relief. Without relief was got I feared for the worst, in her present condition. She, though appeared to be worse at night, she could get no rest—when Mr. Randall, of this place, advised me to try your Royal Balsam, all other remedies having failed, I concluded to try it, and I purchased two bottles. Strange to say, by the time I got the first two bottles of the Balsam she got relief, and slept, a thing she had not done for three nights previous. By the time she had taken one bottle the cough was checked. Its effect was truly miraculous, as the cure was effectual; hence, I have no hesitation in recommending the Royal Balsam to all whom are afflicted, and it appears astonishing to me that medicine of such great merit, and I might say magical effect, is not more in use. My candid opinion is, if persons use it once, they never be without it in the house.
Vancouver, March 1, 1867. H. COCHRAN.

From Wm. Doty.

North Yamhill, July 15, 1867.

DEAR DR. HENLEY—It is with sincere gratitude I undertake to write to you, what your Royal Balsam has done for me. For the last 12 years I have been afflicted with a severe cough and what relief some of the physicians tried for the bronchitis, and have spent a fortune to get cured, by [illegible] the physicians and remedies I could get to no purpose. Through the influence of my neighbors (for you have a great name with them here) I got a bottle of your Royal Balsam and finding that it relieved me considerable I sent for a half dozen more. And now after one month using it I am perfectly cured. I gained ten pounds within a month and feel quite a different man. I would feel like [illegible] publicly for the benefit of humanity, that through my experience others in affliction may be relieved as I have been. Yours truly,
WILLIAM DOTY.

From Sophia M. Holman.

DEAR DR. HENLEY—It is my duty to inform you and the public, what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my children. Two of them had a very bad cough and cold, I got a bottle of the Royal Balsam, and gave them some at bedtime and some in the morning, and that was all that was needed to cure them. I was astonished at not hearing them cough again, but so it was. I find if you give it in larger doses it will make the children throw up in an instant, and I think every mother ought to have a bottle of your Royal Balsam in the house, in case a child should get the croup for which it is a sure remedy, as it acts like magic on children. What I have seen and heard from my neighbors about the Royal Balsam I would sooner depend on it than on any prescription from any physician. I have lost two children of this last year of the same disease, had I had at the time some of the Royal Balsam I am confident my dear ones would be alive now. I shall always recommend it to all my friends, for I consider it a blessing and Godsend to mankind.
Yours truly, SOPHIA M. HOLMAN.

From Drs. Bell & Parker.

We have sold a great deal of Medicine since we have been in business, and now have fifteen different kinds of Expectorants for sale. But Dr. Henley's Royal Balsam Royal Balsam is one of [illegible] the quality of some of no use to keep any other. During our experience we have never seen any medicine that gives the satisfaction the Royal Balsam does, as is proven by the results daily coming in from the country of old Chronic cases, which nothing else would remove the dreadful cough they had. I find it good for Bronchitis and Asthma. We acknowledge it is a pleasure to sell medicine that gives such universal satisfaction.
BELL & PARKER,
Druggists, Oregon City.

From W. F. Barber.

DR. HENLEY—Dear Sir: I had the Asthma for the last four years, so bad that it came near choking me. I tried all the patent medicines recommended, & for the cure of Asthma without doing me the least good, till I was told to try some of your Royal Balsam, which on several afflicted with the same disease has performed wonders. I am using it now for a week and strange to say I have not experienced anything since, and I really believe that I am perfectly cured, anyhow I shall never be without a bottle of the Royal Balsam in the house in case of a similar attack, and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all afflicted with the same disease.
I am Yours truly,
W. F. BARBER.

From J. H. Morril.

DEAR DR. HENLEY—I think it but justice to you that these few lines should be made known to the public, for there is no need, [illegible] going on in patent medicines and quack nostrums now-a-days that I had not all faith in everything in the shape of medicine. I was affected with what is called Bronchitis for the last thirty years, I coughed and wheezed for an hour at a time; I tried some of the best physicians in the Atlantic States and on this coast, all to no purpose. I could get no relief, and I really thought there was no relief for me in the world. I was induced to try a bottle of your Royal Balsam and it had a most remarkable effect on me, and before I had used up four bottles, the cough left me and I can talk as loud as anybody; my wife and neighbors don't know what to make of it. My opinion is that if they knew the value of the Royal Balsam there is not a family in the country that would be without it, I think there is not a better medicine in existence for bronchitis or cough than the Royal Balsam, and I conscientiously recommend to all so afflicted to give it a fair trial.
I remain yours, truly,
J. H. MORRIL.

THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT!

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING PURchased the "UNION BOOK & JOB PRINTING OFFICE," of T. F. McElroy, propose to issue a Weekly Newspaper at Olympia, W. T., on or about the 1st of December next, to be called THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT.

The paper will be devoted to the Agricultural, Mechanical, Commercial, Mineral, Moral and Political interests of the whole Territory.

In Politics we shall uphold and sustain the Union Principles of the Nation; at the same time reserving the right to be INDEPENDENT on all subjects, that we may be better able to discuss all matters in their true light, and give credit wherever it is due.

We trust our friends will circulate this prospectus generally, and assist us in getting a good list of Subscribers, Advertisements, or Job Work. We also invite correspondence from all sections of the Territory.

THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT will be issued every Saturday, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Hoping to receive a share of public favor, we unfurl our banner to the breeze.

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Physiological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in San Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Physiological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a physiological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Physiological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET,
NEAR COMMERCIAL,
San Francisco, Established in 1854,

for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system; Loss of the hair, pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of those horrible life-destroying maladies, and they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to
